Scottish Widows Managed Growth 6 L Acc

Fund Objective

The Fund aims to achieve capital growth by investing in other funds (known as collective investment schemes). These funds provide exposure to shares and bonds and may provide some exposure to alternative assets.

Fund Policy
Between 80% and 100% of the Fund will provide exposure to shares in the UK, overseas and emerging markets. This allocation may also include real estate investment trusts. A maximum of 20% of the Fund will provide exposure to bonds including UK and overseas investment grade* corporate bonds and government bonds. It may also have a small allocation to high yield corporate bonds and emerging market bonds. Cash and cash like investments may be held (directly or indirectly) as part of this allocation. Up to 20% of the Fund may provide exposure to alternative assets such as commodities, listed infrastructure, or listed private equity. The maximum exposure to any of these sub-asset classes will be 10%.

The ACD decides how much to invest in each asset class based on medium to long term outlook and may adjust these allocations over time. The Investment Adviser may make shorter term changes to the asset mix based on market conditions.

The ACD selects funds to be used by the Fund which may be passively managed (tracking the performance of an index) or actively managed (where the fund manager uses their expertise to pick investments with an aim to outperform the market) and may include funds managed by the ACD and its associates. The Fund may invest in funds incorporating Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) factors.

Derivatives may be used to achieve the Fund's investment objective (investment purposes) and to manage the Fund's risk or cost and/or to generate extra income or growth (efficient portfolio management). This includes making short term changes to the Fund's currency exposures. The extent of derivative use for investment purposes is dependent on market conditions and will be limited as the intention is that this should not change the risk profile of the Fund.

The funds in which the Fund invests may use techniques which are not employed by the Fund itself, for example stock lending and hedging. These techniques are not intended to raise the Fund's risk profile.

* Investment grade bonds have achieved or exceeded a minimum credit rating awarded by a credit rating agency, indicating lower risk as issuers are likely to make their payments.

 High yield bonds, or non-investment grade bonds, have lower ratings and higher risk due to a greater chance of missed payments.

Quarterly Fund Manager Review

Global equities rallied in the third quarter, with both developed and emerging markets delivering substantial returns. The gains were primarily fuelled by the continued AI boom, strong corporate earnings, and a Fed interest rate cut. Emerging markets also benefited from the weaker US dollar. While concerns about US trade policy were not as headline dominating as they had been earlier in the year and progress was made on several fronts, uncertainty persists. Companies globally are reconfiguring their supply chains to reduce their dependence on the US and China, which have been at the centre of recent trade conflicts. Even amid the strong rally, elevated stock valuations, persistent inflation and ongoing geopolitical tensions continue to present potential challenges for markets. The performance of government bond markets was mixed during Q3, with US Treasury yields ending the quarter lower (yields are inverse to price), while UK, German, and Japanese yields all rose over the period. In the US, an initial steepening of the yield curve (marking an outperformance of shorter dated bonds) was driven by rate cut expectations and concerns about the Fed's independence being compromised (reducing the market's confidence in the central bank's longer-term inflation-fighting credentials). Signs of a weakening labour market, combined with relatively well-behaved inflation (despite expectations for tariff-driven price pressures), increased the likelihood of an interest rate cut. By the time the Fed's Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) delivered its 25 basis point cut (to 4.0%-4.25%) at its September meeting, the impact was fully priced by the market. The voting pattern of two previous hawkish dissenters also helped placate market concerns around Fed independence and the yield curve reversed its previous steepening trend. In relation to UK property, the economy continues its slow and uneven recovery, with fiscal challenges, uncertainty over geopolitical events and shifting global trade policy continuing to cloud the outlook. Against this mixed economic backdrop, uncapped UK real estate capital values have continued to recover since summer 2024, driven by a combination of modest rental growth and yield compression.
